Pawsitively Peculiar Pet Photo Contest Pawsitive Alliance Announces Winning Photos

Bellevue, WA, July 1, 2019—Pawsitive Alliance is excited to announce the winners of its Pawsitively Peculiar Pet Photo contest, which highlighted pets in the community who have a special kind of beauty. In the spirit of Pawsitive Alliance's #WhyNotMePets program, the goal of this contest was to celebrate quirky, unusual looking or exceptional pets.

The winning pet was Bones, an orange and white kitty with cerebellar hypoplasia. Bones is wobbly when he walks and has trouble holding still while eating, but he has found the perfect person who is willing to look past his imperfections.

Our second-place winner was Ambah who is cross-eyed and originally lived in a hoarding situation. The situation left him fearful of other cats and humans, yet after some failed adoptions, he found a wonderful home. In third place was Turnip another cross-eyed kitty who also has some unusual sleeping habits.

"We are so excited that the winning pets are all those that highlight that there is a pet out there for everyone and a person for every pet," says Pawsitive Alliance's Executive Director, Tereza Marks. "Our organization truly believes that even pets with special needs can find a forever home."

Pawsitive Alliance's #WhyNotMePets program uses social and traditional media to find homes for pets with barriers to adoption, including age, breed, disability and illness. Over 300 hundred dogs and cats have been helped through this program.

Pawsitive Alliance would like to acknowledge the support of Synchronicity Events in putting together this contest.
